January 26, 1922.

To the Members of the Alumni Association of the University of Virginia in New York and to Others Interested in the University:

Dear Sirs:

The undersigned have been appointed a Committee to write a letter to the Alumni Association of the University of Virginia in and about New York and to others who are interested in that great institution to call their attention to the imminent peril that the Medical School of the University of Virginia may be removed to Richmond. This matter will come up this year before the legislature of the State of Virginia which has just convened at Richmond.

To the women of Virginia descent and sympathies this University is as dear as to the men, and this Committee represents and appeals to those women as well as to the men.

The removal of the Medical School from the University of Virginia would be a most serious and, we may say, almost fatal blow to our old Alma Mater. The authorities of the University and of the different Alumni Associations are doing all in their power to prevent this danger. To carry on the campaign against such removal requires funds. The object in writing this letter is to ask you to send a contribution to be used in an effort to stop the removal. We suggest that cheques be sent to Mr. Roger B. Wood, Treasurer of the Committee, at No. 37 Wall Street, New York City.

Trusting that you can answer this appeal promptly,
we are,

Faithfully yours,

Geo. Gordon Battle,
Chairman.
